

Seán Dagher is an active performer, arranger, and composer of music from various folk and classical music traditions: Celtic, Baroque, Medieval, Arabic, French-Canadian, and Maritime. He is a member of Skye Consort and is the co-artistic director of La Nef, in addition to his solo work. Seán sings and plays Irish bouzouki, mandolin, oud, and banjo.

Seán has provided arrangements for numerous ensembles and artists, including the Victoria Symphony, Camerata Nova (Winnipeg), Chor Leoni (Vancouver), Arion, Palade Musica, Les Voix Humaines, La Mandragore, Pierre Lapointe (all Montreal), Shannon Mercer, I Furiosi (Toronto), Les Voix Baroques, Choeur Louisbourg (Moncton), Cantatica (Pennsylvania), and the Nashville Baroque Orchestra. Other groups he has played with include the Montreal Symphony Orchestra, Ensemble Caprices, Arion Orchestre Baroque, Les Boréades, Le Petit Rien, Les Délices (Cleveland).

Seán's voice is widely known from his recordings for the Assassin's Creed video game series, including Black Flag. His renditions of sea shanties and other songs from the games have been streamed some 100 million times. His own Shanty of the Week video series receives thousands of views a week and has a loyal following the world over. He also often tours in North America, the UK, and Europe with renowned UK shanty singing group, The Longest Johns. Seán continues to lend his voice to video game soundtracks for clients from as far afield as China and Indonesia, and from as near as the USA and Germany.

Seán's compositions and arrangements have been performed across Canada, the United States, UK and Europe. He has worked with the Festival du Monde Arabe creating shows of Middle Eastern and North African music. He has arranged and composed music for audio books, with storyteller and musician Suzanne De Serres, Youth Program Director for La Nef, and for American author Sandra Gulland. He has been a composer and sound designer for theatre productions.

He has been nominated for numerous OPUS and ADISQ awards and participated in the ADISQ-winning CD, La Traverse Miraculeuse with La Nef and Les Charbonniers de l'enfer. He has won OPUS awards for Creation of the Year (Leave Her, Johnny), Album of the Year (Skye Consort & Emma Björling), Concert of the Year (Baratin d'marins, La Nef) and Youth Production of the Year (Le chat et le gondolier, La Nef).
