FOLK-JAZZ SEXTET ALLA BOARA CELEBRATES THE DEEP HISTORY OF HUMAN MUSIC-MAKING BY CULTIVATING FRESH SOUNDS FROM THE ANCIENT ROOTS OF REGIONAL ITALIAN FOLK SONGS.

Vocalist Amanda Powell's captivating delivery is propelled by drummer Anthony Taddeo's dynamic compositions, "breathing new possibilities into timeless stories while weaving in limitless and unexpected musical flavors" (Becca Stevens, GRAMMY nominated singer/songwriter). From the specific dialects, stories, and songs of Italy's pre-industrial past spring Alla Boara's universally touching performances which inspire listeners of any heritage to treasure their ancestral roots and to revel in our shared humanity - as surprising, playful, mournful, and tender as the songs themselves.

Currently touring their second full length album "Work & Song", Alla Boara is typically a six piece band, but can be booked as small as a trio or as large as a nonet. The band has also recently obtained orchestral arrangements of their original material which gives Alla Boara even more ways to share the stories behind this incredible folk tradition. Beyond performing, they also have a robust educational outreach curriculum that can be suited for students of all ages. In just a few years as a band they have worked with over 5,000 students!
